The American Conservative Union is the oldest and largest grassroots conservative organization in the country. For over forty years the ACU has been a presence in Washington and across the nation, defining the modern conservative cause and making the conservative voice heard on every issue of importance, foreign and domestic.

ACU's donors recognize that the Constitution is the guarantor of American liberties, that government must not interfere with the freedom and economic well-being of the citizens from whom it derives its powers, and that their active participation is vital to the preservation of these principles and the American way of life.

The ACU's ongoing programs include its annual rating of members of Congress, widely respected as the barometer of an elected official's commitment to the conservative cause, and the Conservative Political Action Conference (CPAC), the premier annual gathering of conservative citizens and activists.
