Frontiers of Freedom, led by former Senator Malcolm Wallop, is a conservative organization built upon the Senator's own philosophy that the primary role of the Federal government is national defense, and that property rights and economic freedom should not be curtailed by government. Morality and civic virtue, fostered by families, not government, form the basis for a free and prosperous society. Building upon these core beliefs, FOF donors have joined the fight against such dangers as rampant government regulation and red tape, the ACLU's war on religion, and the ever bolder mandates being issued by activist state and federal judges.
