These donors are increasingly concerned that the porous border and that the lax law enforcement may be allowing terrorists, in addition to the illegals, to be sneaking through. They support tougher immigration laws, such as the Arizona Immigration law. They are pro-military and support American sovereignty, refusing to bow to the demands of foreign government. These donors are strong supporters of the first and second amendments and believe that the rule of law should prevail in this situation.

The MMP was formed in 2004 after the government's repeated failures to enforce existing immigration laws. Minuteman Project volunteers supplement the government's inadequate patrol of America's borders, but also deter illegal immigrants by exposing the employers who openly recruit them as cheap labor and the safe houses where immigrants congregate.
